

DISASTER

A Cyclone Visitor Not Relished.

Berkeley Gets a Cut Not Expected.

Are the Town Trustees in it?

Anything Now to Down the "Gazette."

Misfortunes, Illegal Street Printing, Town Attorney's Decisions Questioned—
Erroneous Impressions as to the Disaster Gone Abroad—Foreign Papers are Giving Fly News.

The heavens govern. At about half-past nine o'clock this morning there was a terrible darting of the clouds as they passed from the northwest to an opposite direction, and the sudden closure at a point indicated within the nominal lines of Bristol street and the water line of tide water in West Berkeley, that something unusual was in the atmosphere. Writing of the particular place which was apparently in a direct line of the atmospherical whirl, attention is called to its action upon the most prominent obstruction as far as a building is concerned.

The large building situated on the water front of West Berkeley south of Addison street and embracing a large amount of ground, known as the Standard Soap Company's Works, met the brunt of the extraordinary wind power developed in what may be called a whirlwind.

In the building at the hour mentioned what appeared to the inmates was a sound that made them believe that there was a hail storm. Rattling upon the roof sounded as if the beating was sufficiently hard for something to come directly through. Within a few seconds as it appeared to those who were underneath the roof, a crash occurred and in a second as it were the top of the building was hurled yards away.

The compositors in the GAZETTE office at their cases became somewhat blinded by the darkness but thought it was only a dark cloud passing by. Of a sudden the large building began to vibrate and a sickness, like that of being upon a vessel at sea, made them nauseated. Seconds were years, and ten times quicker than it takes to write it the female compositors were hurled headlong twenty feet away. At the time of their being taken away it was supposed that the injuries received would eventually prove fatal. As in cases of this kind the disaster is almost always stated to be greater than eventually it proves to be true. Suffice to say that nature has prevented the GAZETTE from appearing in its usual intensity.

Thanks are given to our contemporaries for their sympathies on this occasion and their willingness to do anything to assist in the time of need.

Tomorrow such repairs to the building as may be necessary for the issuance of the paper will be completed and then an economized vigor of journalistic life will be effused to meet the wants of Berkeley's need, a genuine newspaper.

Arrested on Suspicion.

James Black and a man supposed to be William Rainford, who gives the name of John Doe, were arrested at Kings City, Monterey county, yesterday, by Detective French, charged with being implicated in the famous Judson robbery, which occurred at the B-street station on June 12, 1892.

Detective French was the watchman at the Judson works when the famous robbery was committed, and became familiar with the details of the affair. He was aware of the fact that a blacksmith named Farrell disappeared from the Judson works the very day the robbery was committed. French knew Farrell, and wherever the former went he always had an eye out for him. At last the detective's efforts were rewarded, for he located Farrell not long ago and followed him.

Detective French did not make himself known and, in fact, nobody knew that he was at work on the case. When he had his men well located he went to Oakland and made a report to the Judson managers. They refused to have anything to do in the matter of arrests on the ground that they had already spent a large sum of money in trying to hunt down the robbers, and on the further ground that they had already been sued for damages for alleged false imprisonment in connection with arrests made in Alameda county.

French firmly believed that he had a complete case against the men, and he went before Justice Clift and swore out two John Doe warrants for robbery.

The news reached Berkeley yesterday that the men had been arrested and would be brought before Justice Clift for a preliminary hearing. Those who are familiar with the facts say that French has made a splendid case. He proposes to have the prisoners identified by the brakeman who had talked to the robbers on the train at the time of the robbery and by the stableman at West Oakland from whom they hired the team.

The Judson robbery is one that has gone down in history in Alameda county. On June 12, 1892, Secretary Gilson, of the Judson Company, was on the Berkeley train with an assistant carrying $15,000 in coin to the works in order to pay the men. When the train stopped at B-street station, two men, with blackened faces rushed up to Gilson in a crowded car, pointed revolvers at him and took the sack of coin. They rushed out of the car to a horse and buggy tied near at hand and drove away.

The prisoners were taken to the County Jail last night and locked up in separate cells. Black is a man 54 years old and Rainford is about 25 years of age. Black is very outspoken about the arrest and declares it an outrage. He says that he can prove his whereabouts every day for the past twenty years. He declares that he knows Trustee Lydecker of Alameda, who he says will vouch for him. Rainford, who is known as the "short man," has very little to say about his arrest. He asserts his innocence.

Attempted Suicide.

Last evening at 7:07, as car No. 1 of the Oakland Consolidated Railway Company, which had just left Dwight way, was approaching the corner of Ward street and Shattuck avenue two men approached the track and one of them threw himself directly in front of the approaching car.

Motorman Smith observed the action and threw on his brakes and reversed his current, thereby saving the man's life. The man who was with the would be suicide pulled him off the track and just as the car started the man made another attempt to throw himself under the wheels.

The young man was well dressed, but appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

The names of the would be suicide and the man who was with him could not be ascertained.

A great deal of credit is due Motorman Smith for his prompt action in stopping the car.

The unfortunate position that Captain R. P. Thomas is placed in with his creditors is nothing out of the usual course of daily events. The Captain has had an eventful life and at the present time should have a fuller explanation of his circumstances than we can give it to-day. At a later date we propose to give the public further details which will explain particularly how his misfortune came about.

Owing to the accident which happened to our printing office this morning, the meeting of the Trustees and other important news matter we were unable to set up.

Rev. Campbell and his scapegrace son left this morning for Los Angeles. It is doubtful whether the young man will be allowed to wander far from the parental eye hereafter.

The regular semi-annual inspection and review of the battalion in honor of the President of the University took place on the campus yesterday afternoon.

Meeting of Editors.

SACRAMENTO, December 10.—The California Press Association will hold its annual meeting here tomorrow, and judging from the number of members already in the city the attendance will be large.

At midnight tomorrow a special train of three Pullman cars, chartered for the occasion, will leave on an excursion to the mountains, where the visitors anticipate two days of enjoyment. They will visit the Comstock mines and stop at various places on the way. Many of the members are accompanied by their wives and other members of their families.

Not to be Tried.

SACRAMENTO, December 10.—There was a rumor this afternoon, which was partly confirmed, that Knox, Mullen and Compton, the mediation committee of the American Railway Union, are not to be prosecuted for the murder at two-mile trestle.

According to the story the friends of the three men accused of train wrecking and other offenses during the great strike have made arrangements with the railroad people, by which the charges against them are not to be pressed in the courts.

Surprised the Bride.

MOHANE, Ill., December 10.—Twenty-five thousand in greenbacks was the tidy present received to-day by Miss Maude Thein, a buxom young woman of 27, shortly after her marriage to Eric Ericson, a wealthy bachelor of 58, or more than twice her age.

The somewhat mature groom kept his intentions to himself until after the ceremony. He had presented his wife with a diamond set and that was all she expected. Just before the wedding supper the old gentleman drew from his valise a bulky package containing $25,000 in bills of large denominations and handed it to the bride in the presence of the astonished guests.

A Brave Man Dead.

DENVER, December 10.—Commodore William B. Trufant died to-day of pneumonia, aged 57. He had a remarkable record of bravery during the War of the Rebellion and took a prominent part in the reduction of Fort Fisher and the capture of Wilmington. He was superintendent of the union depot in this city and a prominent Mason.

A RECOUNT.

As was stated in the GAZETTE several days since, there will be in a certain degree a recounting of votes for Governor of the State. It has been quite plain, in the minds of a large number of the leading Republicans of the State, that sufficiently gross frauds have been perpetrated in the counting of votes for Governor, to give on the face the office to James Budd when Morris M. Estee was by right entitled to it. The intention now is to contest this prima facie evidence; and get at the true facts of the case. They may be mistaken, but a great many things tend to the proposition that a recount will make matters look entirely different.

Many people think that is necessary to count all of the votes cast in the State, for its highest office, over again. This does not follow. Only in such precincts where a fraud is supposed to exist will the contestants asked to be gone over with again.

On Saturday next there will be a meeting of the Republican State Committee, when it is very probable that some definite form of action will be passed upon. Before final action in the matter will be taken all of the leading counsellors of the party will be in consultation. In the meantime such preliminary steps as the law requires will be taken that the case may take its way in a strictly legitimate manner.

The GAZETTE is perfectly satisfied that the Honorable James H. Budd would scorn to hold the position if he was satisfied that it did not come to him in an honorable way. Neither would the Honorable M. M. Estee have anything to do with it if he should think for a moment it was gained by the smallest tinge of trickery. Looking at it in this light a recount is wanted by both parties, there being a question of the veracity upon the face of the returns.

A recount will also set at rest, forever, any insinuations which may arise from time thrown out by heated politicians as has been the cases, both of Tilden and Blaine, in the Presidential elections.

VIPEROUS AND VAPOROUS.

John E. Boyd, one of the principal editorial writers of the Advocate, dipped his wagon whip in the paste pot one day last week, and endeavored to get away with the honor attached to the appointment of a Superior Judge. The chicken soup story is truer than anything the staff writer ever offered to the public to swallow. However, it is not the writer which the GAZETTE wishes to notice so much as to the venom displayed against this paper, because it always appears in the lead and naturally finds itself a power in the land.

SWEET CHARITY.

If ever there was a better charitable institution established in Berkeley than the one known as the King's Daughters we have failed to find it out. There may be others just as good but none better. Miss Grace Richardson has long been known as the leading spirit in this organization and has devoted a very large amount of time for the purpose of alleviating the sufferings of man and womankind. To be sure she has had assistance, but without some good leader no one will give that aid which the not always cold hand of charity extends to the suffering. Our heart goes out to this band of comforters to those in need and we trust that the hand of all who are able will never be raised in the negative when charity asks for its opening.

ANOTHER RAILROAD SQUEEZE.

The old question of having the trains on the main line road stop in West Berkeley, came up again in the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, on Saturday evening last. Trustee Acton voiced the whole town of Berkeley when he said that the people wanted such a stopping place. Residents of any part of Berkeley coming from the interior of the State or from any place on the main line of the railroad are forced to go to Oakland, not being allowed to get off anywhere North of Sixteenth street station and then are compelled to pay an extra fare to get to either East or West Berkeley. That the railroad company is making money out of this petty means of extortion every year, is well known.

Even this extortion would appear milder if it were not a fact that passengers are carried miles beyond their destination for the very purpose of collecting an extra fare to get to the point of destination.

Wilder's attempted bluff about being arrested is only in keeping with everything the railroad company has been doing for years, and which they will continue to do until the firm hand of the law lays itself upon the shoulders of those most prominent in carrying out the schemes which would put to shame the countenance of a hardened Italian brigand. The Board's postponement of the matter for weeks to see how the goose is going to fly, only shows a weakness which may be easily overcome.

Call on E. H. Driggs for your oil and gasoline stoves. He will suit you in prices.

Mary J. Nelson has sold to Chas. F. Johnson lot 24, block 21, Shattuck tract.

If you want a nice suit of clothes call on Mikkelsen & Berry, 2124 Center street, Berkeley. All kinds of repairing done.

At Shattuck Hall this evening the High School Orchestra will render several selections for the benefit of the Holmes Library. The admission will be a book. All are invited.

Keep your lawns green by using the lawn mowers and garden hose handled by Shmitt & Zehner at city prices. Repairing of all kinds.

Judge A. L. Frick's oath of office was forwarded to Sacramento on Saturday, and he will occupy his seat upon the judicial bench today.

Get your watches, clocks and jewelry repaired at R. A. Curry's, formerly Scott's 2124 Center street, Berkeley. Diamonds, watches and jewelry of all kinds on hand. Work guaranteed.

Remember that the organization of the West Berkeley Improvement Club will take place to-morrow evening.

Members of Berkeley Council No. 72, are respectively invited to attend the meeting on Friday, December 14, 1894, for the purpose of nominating officers. Mrs. M. A. Bruchmann, Councillor; Harry Wright, Secretary.

Hereafter when Judge Shaw has any cases in West Berkeley to try the judicial chambers will be in the new hall recently fitted up over Landrean's store on the southeast corner of University and San Pablo avenues.

The Board of Trustees will meet this evening and important business, as usual, will come before them to act upon. A report from the Committee of the Whole will be in order and the official conversation upon the different matters may possibly be of a lively nature and it may not.

From now until four or five months hence Berkeley will look at its best. The hills have already assumed that green dress so becoming and pleasant to the eye. The flower gardens not only show the new buds and branches shooting forth with a strong vigor of life, but flowers are in bloom that would make a hot house garden envious in the East. More anon.

The following named gentlemen have been elected officers of Durant Lodge Free and Accepted Masons, for the ensuing year: W. M., B. P. Bull; Senior Warden, J. C. Jensen; Junior Warden, John Martin; Treasurer, J. F. Morrison; Secretary, C. H. Huggins. The installation will take place on Friday evening, December 28, 1894.

The public interest in the special charter soon to be voted upon, is becoming more marked, and its various features are discussed with much animation. Opposition to the ward lines as recommended by the committee, and as subsequently amended by the Board of Freeholders, has become pronounced, and many adverse comments have been made against clothing the president of the Board of Trustees with a veto power. The points, however, have not been finally acted upon by the Board, and the action already taken is subject to revision. It is the intention to publish the charter for several days before final adoption, as formulated by the Freeholders, and then will be the proper time to point out its defects and objectionable sections.

Homer Howard, the successful photographer at Dwight way, has concluded to make an addition to his business. He will move to 2150 Dwight way and open a cigar store and billiard room in connection with the picture business. As he is well-known in that section of the town there is no reason why he should not do a good business. He will be ready to wait upon customers in all branches of his business within two or three days and will feel pleased to get public patronage.

The people are just beginning to discover that they do not get an eighteen-candle power light. Why don't some of them tell the Board of Trustees about it?

How many of the advertisements for street improvements are legal? Is there one? Can any of our readers solve the riddle?

The U. C. Freshmen eleven downed the Stanford Freshmen eleven in the football game Saturday, by a score of 4 to 0.

During the storm Sunday night two pelicans alighted on one of the West Berkeley street cars, probably supposing it was a sleeper.

Late telegrams say that snowing in the mountains still continues and a blockade is likely to occur.

It is really a shame to complicate street improvement matters in a legal way as is now being done. Is there not a God in Israel?

On Saturday evening last Chas. T. Kerns was helping to lift a trunk upstairs to his rooms and received a strained back for so doing. He suffering a good deal of pain, but expects to be about in a few days.

Tonight the Lorin Fire Department will meet in their engine house in a special meeting to make arrangements for their smoker Saturday evening next.

The new double residence of Horace Gushee on the corner of Center and Oxford streets is rapidly nearing completion. Mr. Armstrong, the contractor, has pushed the work along rapidly and by the first of the year will have completed the building.

Mrs. Chas. T. Kerns returned Saturday from a three months' visit to Chicago. She reports having a pleasant trip, but wanted to get back to Berkeley, the land of sunshine and flowers.

Pretty Typewriters After Them.

Jerome Deasy, Edson Adams, Charles Spear, W. H. Church and County Clerk Crane, as members of the old Republican County Central Committee, are about to be sued by five pretty typewriters of Oakland for services rendered during the campaign before the last working on supplemental registers. The young women, who claim that $55 is due them, are the Misses Flore A. Fogarty, A. W. LeFrere, Lucy Shaw, Ella Hill and Lizzie E. Wilkins. Miss Fogarty is the largest claimant, having something like $35 due her. The defendants to the suit propose to say that they are not responsible.

General Browne Dead.

The sudden death of ex Surgeon General John Mills Browne of the United States Navy, in Washington on Friday evening last, was received in Berkeley on Saturday. He was born in Hensdale, N. H., May 10, 1831, and graduated in the medical department of Harvard University in 1852. He entered the naval service in 1853 as assistant surgeon. His first duty was on the sloop of war, Warren, stationed at Sausalito. In September 1854 the ship was taken to Mare Island, where Captain (late Admiral) D. G. Farragut had hoisted his flag, the first official one raised on the yard. In 1855 he was ordered to the steamer Active, and later on filled many responsible positions as he rose in rank. He was on board of the Kearsarge during her fight with the Alabama. He married the daughter of Daniel Turner, who was the first civil engineer appointed at the Mare Island Navy Yard. Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star Spangled Banner" was Miss Turner's grandfather. Dr. Browne was elected as Supreme officer of the Knight Templars, and was a 33d degree member. He was appointed Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in the navy department at Washington, and served until he was retired by the law on account of age. He was well known all over California, and held many other positions of trust and honor besides those mentioned above.

Should not Have Been Published.

The young man who writes against space without taking proper time to do it may have got himself into serious trouble by helping his readers to more personalities than even the most strenuous times would justify. West Berkeley's well known constable feels highly offended. Willing to give and take a joke, he thinks that the writer has taken a little too much liberty in making him appear ridiculous with comparatively nothing to build the narrative upon. A nice little story is all right as long as it does not reflect upon a man's character. When it does then his temper gets aroused. Attention is called to the matter knowing that our mutual friend will get the benefit of a proper explanation when he understands things in a better light.

Diphtheria.

An announcement has been made that several cases of diphtheria are now under a course of treatment in West Berkeley. The reporter has not been able to trace the matter up. He did find out that there was some sickness which had the appearance of the disease mentioned, but nothing reliable as to its being prevalent.
